CCCU Holds School Supply Drive for Distance Learning Needs from July 27-August 21

[LAS VEGAS, Nev.] – July 24 2020 – School work and distance learning can be difficult without the proper materials, and while school will look different for most children in Clark County this Fall, the need for school supplies remains the same. Clark County Credit Union (CCCU) is holding a school supply drive at each of its six branches from July 27 to August 21 to help meet the demand for children who need a full set of supplies at home. The credit union is also accepting monetary donations that will then be used to purchase school supplies; money can be transferred from a CCCU member’s account or cash donations are also accepted.

To provide a school supply donation visit any CCCU branch. For cash donations at a branch, you can transfer funds into the CCCU Cares account, used to support our local community, or contact 702-228-2228 option 3 to speak to Member Service.

“One of my favorite parts of going back to school as a child, and even now with children of my own, was getting new supplies for the first day of school,” said Shannon Hiller, Chief Marketing Officer of CCCU. “Our CCCU Cares committee knows that getting new supplies isn’t always possible for the children at some of our high-risk schools. We are asking our credit union members and community to help fill the gap by donating the basics – paper, pencil, glue sticks, and where possible, the technology to assist with distance learning like earbuds, even tablets.”
